For Immediate Release: September 7, 2007

As of 12:01 a.m., Monday, September 10, 2007, fire authorities are rescinding the last of the fire restrictions remaining on all federal, state and unincorporated private lands west of Interstate-15 in Tooele, Utah and Box Elder counties and along the Colorado River from the Dewey Bridge on Highway 128 to the west end of the Highway 279 within ¼ mile of the river.

“Recent weather has put our indices and fuel conditions to near normal,” said Jeff Kline, Fire Management Officer of the Salt Lake Field Office, BLM. “Recent rain and cooler temperatures have reduced the fire danger but the grasses and finer fuels are still a concern. Along with this rescind of fire restrictions we want to remind folks to use caution with outdoor activities.”
